"Where an agreement has been reached among men as to what ought to be done now, there should be forgetfulness for the past," he said, and his sentiment was applauded. "Men should have good forgetting machines so far as individuals are concerned. 'Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors,' is a good dectrine to follow. Resentment and revenge are the most foolish of things."

Men who heard the words took them to mean that Mr. Bryan's differences with National Committeeman Roger C. Sallivan were at an end; that there would be no anti-Bryan contest in Illi-

Jury Decides Damage Action in Favor of Defendant Railway Company.

Sullivan, attorney for Wagstaff, and Judge Lewis were the principal figures. George H. Smith, counsel for the railway company, had reflected upon Mr. Sullivan by charging an attempt to prejudice a witness against the company. Mr. Sullivan retorted that if he were so inclined he could divulge a few things concerning the company's methods. Mr. Smith objected to Mr. Sullivan going outside of the record and was sustained by the court.

The Juadding that a verdict in favor of the plaintiff might be set aside, if such were returned, after the statements made by the attorney.

When the verdict was returned, Priday morning, it was found that the jury stood six to two in favor of no cause of action against the company, and Wagstaff a conductor, was hurt in a collision and presented a claim to the company for $1000, but it was turned down and he then filed an action in the Third District court, demanding judgment for $10,000. venile court commission has asked for the rooms at present occupied by the auditor, upon the auditor taking possession of the rooms now occupied by the court. Mayor Bransford says to the Council that he would be pleased to have the rooms turned over to the court without charge, if the Council sees its way to do so. The Mayor adds that the Juvenile court is an institution which has done much for the children of the city and that it should be rendered every assistance possible.
